Required Readings

There is a required reading list, which consists of published academic papers in economic history. The readings are listed on the schedule at below, and are linked from the course website.

Course Description

This is an upper level course aimed to familiarize students with select important topics in economic history, with a focus on the United States and Canada, and to acquaint them with empirical methods of research in economic history. The course will focus on micro themes (i.e. research analyzing individuals, localities or firms) that are important across North America, with some focus on topics unique to the United States. These topics include an overview of the importance of history and institutions to economic development; slavery in the United States and its long-term economic impacts; industrialization and manufacturing; migration and economic mobility; natural resources and agriculture in Canadian and American development; urbanization and suburbanization in the U.S.; health and mortality; and marriage and fertility. In addition to familiarizing students with important topics and methods in economic history, this course will develop writing and presentation skills.

Course Evaluation

- 1) Paper (45%). You will write an essay (roughly 1500-2000 words) on one of the topics covered in class. Your essay will take the form of a literature review, centered on a single, important paper in this literature (which I will give you).
- 2) Class participation (20%). This grade consists of two parts: (i) attendance and participation in class discussions; (ii) brief presentation on one week's reading, to be prepared in groups ahead of time.
- 3) Midterm Exam (15%). The midterm exam will be in short answer format and will cover all class discussion and required readings covered before the midterm.
- 4) Final exam (20%). The final exam will be in short answer format and will cover all class discussion and required readings covered subsequent to the midterm.

Missed Exams and Late Assignments

A deferral for either the midterm or the final exam will be granted only for medical reasons. In such cases students should submit a deferred exam application together with the supporting documents (attending physician's statement) to the economics department to my attention. The date and time of the deferred exam will be set at a later date. Students who may require further extensions or accommodation will have to submit a formal petition to the Faculty. Papers are due on November 14th, and will lose points for lateness according to the following formula: a paper that is D business days late will lose $5 * (\ln D + 1)$ points. I must receive your paper by the end of the semester (December 3rd), or it will receive a grade of zero.

Grading

The grading scheme for the course conforms to the 9-point grading system used in undergraduate programs at York (e.g., A+ = 9, A = 8, B+ = 7, C+ = 5, etc.). Tests will bear either a letter grade designation or a corresponding number grade (e.g. A+ = 90 to 100, A = 80 to 90, B+ = 75 to 79, etc.)
