The Practice of General Management

Term: Winter 2023, asynchronous online course

Section Director: Kelly Baron

Email: k.whitehead@mail.utoronto.ca

Office Hours: By appointments

Start Date: January 9, 2023.

Note: the instructor reserves the right to change the course activities, the sequence of text materials, and the assignment of cases.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course develops the required organizational skills and practices of managers to meet their objectives in small, medium and large organizations. Theoretical instruction is combined with cases and experiential exercises to help students develop a comprehensive understanding of the subject and the integration of functional areas in strategic analysis.

COURSE OVERVIEW

The course is divided into three four-week modules. We will start by exploring purpose, principles and leadership in management. We will then move on to studying the process of managing the activities of a competitive firm, from planning to execution. We will end by looking at the challenges associated with managing change, innovation and risk.

The majority of the course readings are cutting edge articles that you will download from the York library website for free. The exceptions are the book Connected Capitalism and the cases/simulations/course kit, which will be available for purchase through the bookstore or online. The supporting videos can be accessed via the links below. All but one are hosted on YouTube. The instructor will also post slides to guide your reading, thinking and watching, along with recorded mini-lectures online each week. Listening to the recordings of the mini-lectures is mandatory, and should be considered an extension of the required readings.

COURSE EVALUATION

There are various grade components (see below):

Real-world application essays: 20% (5% per question)

Students will be expected to submit essay answers to four recent, real-world business issues throughout the term. Two questions will be made available in week three for submission by midnight on the last day of week five, and two questions will be made available in week nine for submission by midnight on the last day of week eleven. Each answer should be written in an essay format, approximately 1000-1250 words, submitted as one double-spaced document for each deadline. Essay responses must draw from at least two different course readings per question. External research is permitted, but not necessary. All course readings and research must be fully cited, with a bibliography provided. Citational format is at the discretion of the student, but must follow a commonly accepted standard (i.e., MLA, APA, or Chicago).

Simulation: 10%

Students are also required to complete one simulation. Students must pay for it directly through the Harvard website. It will become available at the end of week two to allow for two weeks for students to complete the simulation. Students must complete the simulation itself, then submit a 2-3 page, double-spaced reflection paper on the simulation which includes a discussion of 1) Justification for the decisions made in the sim and 2) Reflection on the learning experience from the simulation. The simulation is due by midnight on the last day of week 4. In an attached appendix at the end of the paper, students must include their results from all four runs of the simulation (screenshots of the final results are fine, but they must show the student's name and/or login in English). If any course readings are applied, they must be cited with a bibliography provided. Please note that any papers submitted without fully completing the simulation (i.e., all assigned runs) will receive a grade of 0 and may be reported for academic dishonesty.

Midterm assignment – 30%

The midterm assignment is a take-home essay that is due before midnight on the last day of week 7. Students will choose a key theme highlighted in Chapters 1-5 or the Introduction of Connected Capitalism. Students will then choose a recent business example that highlights the theme in practice and consider the real-world application of themes from Connected Capitalism in an essay of approximately 2250-2500 words. The article chosen must be from the last two months of business news, and a link to the article needs to be provided at the top of the first page of the midterm. If no link is provided, or if the article is older than two months from the deadline for the midterm, 10% will be deducted from the final midterm grade. All external sources (i.e., the article, Connected Capitalism, and any further external research or course readings applied) must be cited with a bibliography provided.

Please note that this is an examination, and no extensions will be permitted beyond those required for accessibility, medical, or religious accommodations.

Final exam - 40%

Students will write a take-home final exam that will test comprehension of the assigned material. The exam will be cumulative, consist of three essay questions and the time/date will be set by the University.

Bonus Marks: Students who are regularly active on Moodle message boards posting about the weekly readings will receive 2 bonus points towards their final grade. You must post on ALL the readings, EACH week, on time to qualify.

Please note: Late assignments will not be accepted.

RELEVANT UNIVERSITY POLICIES

Academic Honesty: The Faculty of Liberal Arts and Professional Studies considers breaches of the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty to be serious matters. The Senate Policy on Academic Honesty is an affirmation and clarification for members of the University of the general obligation to maintain the highest standards of academic honesty. As a clear sense of academic honesty and responsibility is fundamental to good scholarship, the policy recognizes the general responsibility of all faculty members to foster acceptable standards of academic conduct and of the student to be mindful of and abide by such standards. Suspected breaches of academic honesty will be investigated and charges shall be laid if reasonable and probable grounds exist.

Students should review the York Academic Honesty policy for themselves at:

Non-academic grounds are not relevant for grade reappraisals; in such cases, students are advised to petition to their home Faculty. Students are normally expected to first contact the course director to discuss the grade received and to request that their tangible work be reviewed. Tangible work may include written, graphic, digitized, modeled, video recording or audio recording formats, but not oral work. Students need to be aware that a request for a grade reappraisal may result in the original grade being raised, lowered or confirmed. For reappraisal procedures and information, please visit the Office of the Registrar site at:

Accommodation Procedures: LA&PS students who have experienced a misfortune or who are too ill to attend the final examination in an ADMS course should not attempt to do so; they must pursue deferred standing.
