Extended Course Description

This course is an introduction to modern macroeconomics. The first part is an introduction to macroeconomic data through measurement of key macroeconomic variables and analysis of those variables. The second part focuses on modern macroeconomic theory through modeling based on microeconomic foundations. The link between data and theory is emphasized by addressing real world questions through models. A few of these questions are,

- Why are countries becoming richer?
- What should the role of the government be?
- What causes recessions?

Required Textbook

Williamson, Stephen D., Macroeconomics, 5th Canadian Edition, Addison Wesley, 2017

Evaluation

There will be a midterm and a final exam. The midterm will be held in class on February 26. The final exam will cover all material discussed in class. The date of the final exam will be determined by the Registrar's Office.

Let your scores on the midterm and final exam be m and f respectively. Your grade will be based on the following formula:

$$0.7 f + 0.3 \max \{ m , f \}$$

In other words, your midterm exam will only count if you do better in the midterm exam than in the final exam. In this case it will count for 30% of your final grade and the final exam will count for 70% of your final grade. Otherwise, your final exam will count for 100% of your final grade.

There will be 5% bonus marks if you attend 10 classes and another 5% bonus marks if you attend 18 classes. Attendance will be recorded through iClicker.

Misreporting attendance will be penalized by loss of bonus points.

Rules on Grading, Missed Tests and Exams

1. No make-up exam for the midterm exam. If you miss the midterm test for any reason, your final exam will have a weight of 100% of your final grade
2. The grades may be scaled to conform with the regulations of the Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies
