Land Acknowledgment

York University recognizes that many Indigenous Nations have longstanding relationships with the territories upon which York University campuses are located that precede the establishment of York University. York University acknowledges its presence on the traditional territory of many Indigenous Nations. The area known as Tkaronto has been care taken by the Anishinabek Nation, the Haudenosaunee Confederacy, and the Huron-Wendat. It is now home to many First Nation, Inuit, and Métis communities. We acknowledge the current treaty holders, the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation. This territory is subject of the Dish with One Spoon Wampum Belt Covenant, an agreement to peaceably share and care for the Great Lakes region (LA&PS Land Acknowledgement).

Expanded Course Description

ECON 4400: Financial Economics and its continuation, ECON 4410: Corporate Finance, are applied courses in corporate finance, which aim to develop an understanding of the theoretical foundation of modern finance and make the theory come to life through contemporary examples. In ECON 4400, we focus on two major questions faced by the firm:

1. What projects should the firm invest in?
2. What sources of financial capital can the firm use for its investment activities?

The course will assist you in improving your quantitative skills as well as your ability to read critically and understand the financial press. Topics include net present value, capital budgeting, efficiency of capital markets, treatment of risk, valuation of equity and debt, and financial strategy.

Course Learning Objectives

Upon completing this course, you will be able to:

- describe and analyze basic accounting statements
- define and apply modern approaches to asset valuation and portfolio management
- describe, compare and contrast the major capital budgeting methods
- identify the limitations of each capital budgeting method
- identify relevant inputs for a capital budgeting problem
- display awareness of behavioral theories of human decision-making
- describe and interpret fundamental theories of asset pricing and their implications for corporate decision making
- identify underlying assumptions of financial theories and assess the implications of changes to these assumptions
- apply concepts and models learned in class to solve financial problems in written mathematical form
- apply concepts and theories learned in class to case studies and real-world problems
- identify the potential and limitations of financial theory in dealing with real-world problems

Course Organization

The course is organized in a lecture format; however, your questions, comments and feedback are welcome at any point of time, both inside and outside the classroom. Technology is extensively used for delivering instruction and interactive activities in the classroom and via the course website on eClass.

Please make it a habit of checking the course website on eClass on a regular basis for current course announcements, lecture handouts, homework, practice quizzes and exercises, and assigned readings. Although lecture notes will be provided on eClass ahead of time, they are not meant to be a comprehensive treatment of the material, nor are they a substitute for the textbook or class attendance.

Class attendance is expected of all students. You are responsible to make up for the material covered in class if you miss a lecture.

On eClass, there is a separate discussion board for each topic we cover in class as well as for general and course administration questions. There are economies of scale for me and a positive externality for your classmates if you post all questions, comments, and thoughts about the course content to the relevant eClass discussion board rather than e-mailing me. It is also a great learning experience for you to answer questions your classmates have posted. I monitor these boards and respond on a regular basis.

Communication Guidelines

Please use your York email account for correspondence. Do not forget to sign your name.

Course Evaluations

There are two grading schemes. The first one is based on a midterm, quizzes, and a final exam. Alternatively, you have the option to participate in a group project, in which case the second grading scheme applies. Your course grade will be determined by the higher of your grades, considering both the grading scheme with projects and the grading scheme without projects.

I strongly recommend considering the second grading scheme. Teamwork skills are valued both in the professional world and academia. If you plan to apply to a graduate business program, your ability to collaborate in a team is a criterion that your references may have to evaluate.

Course Evaluation Chart

Assessment	Due Date	Weight %
		Option 1	Option 2
Grading Scheme 1
Midterm Exam	Nov. 1	35%	0%
Online Quizzes	During the term	10%	10%
Final Exam*	TBA	55%	90%
		100%	100%
Grading Scheme 2
Midterm Exam	Nov. 1	30%	0%
Online Quizzes	During the term	10%	10%
Group Projects	During the term	10%	10%
Final Exam*	TBA	50%	80%
		100%	100%

Note: *Exceptionally strong performance on the cumulative final exam is taken into consideration. If your grade on the final exam is higher than the grade on the midterm, the weight of the midterm exam will be transferred to your final exam under both grading schemes.

** Group projects can either positively impact your grade or have no effect at all.

More succinctly, your course grade will be determined based on the higher of the two grading schemes outlined below:

Grade (Scheme 1) = Max{(35% Midterm + 10% Quizzes + 55% Final), (10% Quizzes + 90% Final)}

Grade (Scheme 2) =  $\text{Max}\{(30\% \text{ Midterm} + 10\% \text{ Quizzes} + 10\% \text{ Project} + 50\% \text{ Final}), (10\% \text{ Quizzes} + 10\% \text{ Project} + 80\% \text{ Final})\}$

Up to one bonus point will be assigned if you are on the margin (e.g., your course grade is 79) for regular and insightful posts on the eClass discussion boards and participation in in-class activities. There is no make-up for such activities. I also give significant weight to class participation when asked to serve as a reference for graduate school or job applications. I do not commit to serve as a reference for students who did not attend classes.

Final course grades may be adjusted to conform to Program or Faculty grades distribution profiles.

Concerns about apparent grading errors will be considered during the term, but requests for “extra credit” or other special considerations in assigning grades will be ignored.

Assessment Descriptions

Midterm Exam: The midterm will be held in person during class time on Nov. 1. This is a closed-book, closed-notes exam.

Quizzes: For each chapter we cover in class, there will be an online quiz on eClass. Online quizzes are timed and navigation between questions is sequential. Each quiz will be assigned upon covering the chapter in class and you will have one week to complete the quiz at a convenient time for you. You can attempt each chapter quiz as many times as you wish. The highest grade will count towards your course grade.

Group Projects: There will be 3 group projects, but only the best two count towards your course grade. Each project is worth 5%. You are responsible to form a group. Each group should have no fewer than 4 people and no more than 5. All group members will receive the same grade on the project. Individual projects will not be graded. Detailed instructions on the group assignments and deadlines will be provided in class.

Final Exam: The final exam is cumulative with a greater emphasis on the material covered after the midterm. This is a closed-book, closed-notes exam. The final exam date, time and location will be set by the Registrar’s Office during the final examination period, December 5-20.

Homework Problem Sets: A homework problem set will be made available on eClass for each chapter we cover in class. Homework problems sets will not be graded but you are encouraged to work on the assigned problems to reinforce the course material and prepare for exams. I tend to select some of these problems for your exams.

Missed Exams and Deadlines

Quizzes: There will be no extensions to the quiz deadlines for any reason. The lowest quiz grade will be dropped to account for any unexpected circumstances.

Midterm Exam: There will be no make-up midterm exam for any reason. The midterm exam is not optional. If you miss the midterm exam, you will receive a grade of zero (that is, your course grade will be equal to 10% Quizzes + 55% Final, assuming you choose not to work on the group project) unless you email me within one week of the exam date with a detailed explanation of the reasons for missing the midterm exam. While an Attending Physician's Statement is not mandatory, it is highly recommended.

If you miss the midterm exam for a valid reason (e.g., medical emergency) and you email me within one week of the date of the midterm, your final exam will carry the extra weight (e.g., 90% instead of 55% if you choose not to work on the group projects).

Final: For students who miss the final, the Department of Economics Guidelines on Deferred Standing apply. In such cases, students should submit a Mach form request online at

<https://www.yorku.ca/laps/econ/undergraduate-programs/academic-resources/department-policies/deferred-standing/>

The date and time of the deferred exam will be set at a later date. Students who may require further extensions will have to submit a formal petition to the Faculty.

Academic Integrity

It is our joint responsibility to strive to maintain academic integrity to the highest extent possible. Academic integrity is the pillar of higher education and a fundamental and important value of York University. Breaches of academic integrity such as cheating on exams affect all of us adversely, including the cheaters - your degree is as valuable as the reputation for academic honesty of our institution. All suspected instances of academic dishonesty in this course will be reported to the appropriate university authorities.

To maintain a fair and honest learning environment, you are responsible for understanding and upholding academic integrity in all courses and academic activities. You are encouraged to connect with reliable on-campus resources that support your coursework and academic honesty. To better understand the serious consequences of breaching academic honesty policies, familiarize yourself with the Senate Policy on Academic Conduct. You can learn more about upholding academic integrity in your courses by exploring Guiding Principles for LA&PS and Academic Integrity for Students.

Always remember that I am working on your side, making sure you understand the meaning and importance of academic integrity. If you ever have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to speak with me.

The following quote by Madison Sarratt (1891-1978), an academic and administrator at Vanderbilt University, beautifully captures my personal stance on academic integrity:

Tomorrow I will give you two examinations, one in trigonometry and one in honesty. I hope you will pass them both, but if you must fail one, let it be trigonometry, for there are many good people in this world today who cannot pass an examination in trigonometry, but there are no good people in the world who cannot pass an examination in honesty.

Generative Artificial Intelligence (GenAI)

Students are not permitted to use generative artificial intelligence (AI) in this course. Submitting any work created (in whole or part) through the use of generative AI tools will be considered a violation of York University's Senate Policy on Academic Conduct. Using AI apps such as ChatGPT, GPT-3, DALL-E, translation software among others to complete academic work without your instructor's knowledge or permission, is considered to be a breach of academic honesty. For more information, please review AI Technology & Academic Integrity: Information for Students.

Turnitin

To promote academic integrity in this course, the group leader will be required to submit the group projects to Turnitin (via the course's eClass site) for a review of textual similarities and the detection of possible plagiarism. In so doing, students will allow their material to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database, where they will be used only for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University's use of the Turnitin service are described on the Turnitin.com website. York students may opt out of using Turnitin. If you wish to opt out, you should contact me as soon as possible.

Accessibility

York University is committed to creating a learning environment which provides equal opportunity to all members of its community. If the date falls within the formal examination periods, you must complete and submit a Religious Accommodation for Examination Form at least three (3) weeks before the start of the exam period.
